Technology usage at CKMS is on the rise.....

Our school has always been in the forefront of technology use. This year is no exception. All of our classrooms have active boards for instruction. Many teachers use active expressions to get instant student feedback during lessons. Our communication to parents is predominately based on email and website information. Families can use home computers to access student grades, assignments, and lunch account information. Chief Kanim boasts three fully functioning computer labs, a library with computer stations for research, and a tech classroom for video production projects. Currently our PE department is doing a geocaching unit that involves students using a GPS. This incorporates science, math, fitness, and technology. The students have really found this unit to be a fun one.

We will be hosting three student recognition ceremonies this year. If your student is being recognized you will receive an invitation by mail. The first ceremony will take place on the morning of November 12th. We want to recognize those students who have done community service outside of the school environment. If your child has done some community service please contact Cheri Enevold (425-831-8226 or enevoldc@svsd410.org) with the information.

We have a group of students that have expressed interest in having a Thursday after school sign language club. If this is a club your child would enjoy, have them sign up in our
